

International Tax South Africa Highlights 2019

Updated January 2019

Recent developments:

For the latest tax developments relating to South Africa, see Deloitte tax@hand.

Investment basics:

Currency – South African Rand (ZAR)

Foreign exchange control – Exchange control is administered by the South African Reserve Bank, which has delegated powers to authorized dealers (banks licensed to deal in foreign exchange). South Africa does not impose exchange controls on nonresidents, but exercises exchange controls over residents and transactions between residents and nonresidents.

Accounting principles/financial statements – IFRS. Financial statements must be prepared annually. In accordance with Companies Act requirements, certain companies must have their financial statements audited; for others, an independent review is required.

Principal business entities – Companies are classified as profit or nonprofit companies. With regard to profit companies, the Companies Act distinguishes between four different types of company: the private company, personal liability company, state-owned company and public company. A branch of a foreign company is required to register as an external company. The most commonly adopted forms of doing business by foreign investors are private companies and branches.

Corporate taxation:

Residence – A corporation is resident if it is incorporated in South Africa or effectively managed in South Africa (unless the corporation is deemed to be exclusively resident in another country for purposes of the tax treaty with that other country).

Basis – Residents are taxed on worldwide income; nonresidents are taxed on South African-source income and on capital gains arising from the disposal of immovable property and assets of a permanent establishment in South Africa. Foreign-source income derived by residents is subject to corporation tax in the same way as South African-source income. Branches generally are taxed in the same manner as subsidiary companies.

Taxable income – Income tax is imposed on a company's profits, which consist of business/trading income, passive income and capital gains. Expenses incurred in the production of income may be deducted in computing taxable income.

Taxation of dividends – Dividends received from a foreign company are, in principle, subject to income tax, although various exemptions exist (e.g. a foreign dividend will be exempt where the recipient holds at least 10% of the shares and voting rights of the payer company). Where a foreign dividend is taxable, a credit for withholding tax suffered generally is available.

Capital gains – Only 80% of capital gains is included in taxable income and taxed at the normal income tax rate. However, gains on the sale of substantial foreign shareholdings are exempt if certain conditions are satisfied.

Losses – Trading losses may be carried forward indefinitely. The carryback of losses is not permitted.

Rate – The rate is 28% for companies and branches.

Surtax – No

Alternative minimum tax – No

Foreign tax credit – Foreign tax paid on foreign-source income may be credited against South African tax on the same profits, but the credit is limited to the amount of South African tax payable on the foreign income. Other limitations also may apply.

Participation exemption – A participation exemption may apply to capital gains derived by a South African resident holding company on the disposal of a substantial shareholding in a foreign company. To qualify for the exemption, the South African company must hold at least 10% of the equity shares and voting rights in a foreign company for at least 18 months before the disposal, and the interest must be disposed of to a nonresident who is not a connected person of the South African company.

Holding company regime – Under the headquarter company regime, the controlled foreign company (CFC) rules; the dividend, interest and royalty withholding taxes; and the transfer pricing rules do not apply. Exchange control relief is granted to qualifying headquarter companies.

Under the functional currency rules, certain entities—including branches, CFCs and headquarter companies (where ZAR is not the functional currency)—are allowed to rely on their functional currency (i.e. the currency of the primary economic environment in which the business operations are conducted) for tax purposes.

Incentives – Incentives include a preferential corporate tax rate for small business corporations; an R&D deduction; additional tax allowances; urban development and infrastructure development allowances; preferential rates for entities located in a special economic zone; public-private partnership grants; environmental expenditure deductions; a carbon-reducing exemption; energy-saving allowances; deductions in respect of expenditure incurred in exchange for the issue of venture capital company shares; oil and gas income tax incentives; and a film allowance.

Withholding tax:

Dividends – Dividends paid to individuals, trusts and foreign persons are subject to a 20% withholding tax (subject to the provisions of an applicable tax treaty). Dividends paid by a headquarter company are exempt from withholding tax.

Interest – Interest paid to or for the benefit of a nonresident is subject to a 15% withholding tax (subject to the provisions of an applicable tax treaty), to the extent that such interest accrues from a source within South Africa. Interest paid by a headquarter company is exempt from withholding tax.

Royalties – The rate of the withholding tax on royalties paid to a nonresident is 15%. The rate may be reduced under a tax treaty. Royalties paid by a headquarter company are exempt from withholding tax.

Technical service fees – No

Branch remittance tax – No

Other – Where a purchaser of South African immovable property makes a payment to a nonresident, the purchaser must withhold a percentage of the amount payable, depending on whether the seller is an individual, a company or a trust.

A final withholding tax of 15% is withheld on gross payments to nonresident entertainers and sportspersons who earn income in South Africa.

Other taxes on corporations:

Capital duty – No

Payroll tax – A 1% payroll levy (“skills development levy”) is imposed on employers, but companies with annual payroll costs below ZAR 500,000 are exempt.

Real property tax – Municipal authorities levy “rates” on the occupation of real property. Rates are deductible in calculating corporation tax liability. (See also “Transfer tax,” below.)

Social security – The employer must contribute the equivalent of 1% of gross income for each employee (up to a capped amount), plus a similar 1% deduction from the employee, to the Unemployment Insurance Fund.

Stamp duty – Securities transfer tax is levied on the transfer of securities (including shares), at a rate of 0.25%.

Transfer tax – Transfer duty at progressive rates up to 13% is payable on the acquisition of immovable property, where the transaction is not subject to VAT.

Other – Donations (gift) tax is payable by a donor at 20% of the value of property donated by South African residents. Certain exemptions apply (e.g. donations by public companies and between group companies).

Anti-avoidance rules:

Transfer pricing – Transfer pricing legislation requires a South African taxpayer to follow arm’s length principles in transactions with connected persons outside South Africa. The taxpayer has the responsibility for adjusting prices to arm’s length.

South African multinational enterprises (MNEs) with prior-year group consolidated turnover of at least ZAR 10 billion are required to comply with the South African country-by-country (CbC) reporting regulations; a threshold of EUR 750 million applies to MNEs headquartered outside South Africa.

Transfer pricing documentation essentially is mandatory for all South African taxpayers with “potentially affected transactions” (i.e. transfer pricing transactions). Additional transfer pricing record-keeping requirements apply if certain thresholds are met.

If the aggregate of potentially affected transactions for the year exceeds ZAR 100 million, the South African taxpayer is required to keep certain general records (some of which overlap with a master file requirement). For each category of transactions (e.g. management fees, sales of goods) with potentially affected transactions exceeding ZAR 5 million, significant additional records must be kept to support the pricing of the transactions. Significant additional information also is required where a “tested party” to a transaction is based outside of South Africa, and where the transaction involves financial assistance.

If the prescribed thresholds above are not met, a South African taxpayer with transfer pricing transactions still is required to keep sufficient records for arm’s length purposes, in respect of those transactions. It is understood that such records include transfer pricing documentation.

Thin capitalization – Thin capitalization provisions that are part of the general transfer pricing rules limit the deduction of interest payable by South African companies on debt provided by a nonresident connected person in relation to the South African borrower or a nonresident connected person entitled to participate, directly or indirectly, in no less than 20% of the company’s equity. The main test for thin capitalization purposes is to assess the commercial terms and conditions of an agreement concluded between independent parties, as compared to the terms and conditions concluded between a South African taxpayer and a nonresident connected person.

Controlled foreign companies – A CFC is a foreign company in which one or more South African residents hold, directly or indirectly, more than 50% of the participation or voting rights of the company. Under the CFC rules, an amount equal to the net income earned by a CFC in relation to a South African resident is subject to tax in the hands of the South African resident, unless an exemption applies. Tax paid in the foreign country generally may be offset against the South African tax payable.

Disclosure requirements – For purposes of the administration of the Income Tax Act, the tax authorities may require any taxpayer or any other person to furnish information, documents or other items. South Africa also has expanded its reportable arrangement provisions to alert the tax authorities to transactions that may give rise to an undue tax benefit. A reportable arrangement is defined in the Tax Administration Act and a list of reportable arrangements has been published in the government gazette. The list is not final and will be amended as and when necessary.

Other – A statutory general anti-avoidance rule applies.

Compliance for corporations:

Tax year – The tax year is the same as the corporation’s accounting year.

Consolidated returns – Consolidated returns are not permitted; each company must file a separate return.

Filing requirements – Companies are required to file their income tax returns annually, within a period prescribed by the South African Revenue Service (SARS) (normally, within 12 months of the company’s financial year end). Advance provisional tax payments must be made twice a year, based on estimates of the final tax amount—the first during the first six months of the company’s financial year, and the second before the end of the year. Where the provisional tax payments are less than the final tax liability, an additional payment of provisional tax must be made within six months after the end of the tax year.

Penalties – Penalties and interest are imposed for failure to comply with certain tax obligations.

Rulings – Binding rulings are available from the tax authorities on the interpretation of most provisions of the Income Tax Act.

Personal taxation:

Basis – South African residents are taxed on worldwide income. Nonresidents are taxed on South African-source income and on capital gains from the disposal of immovable property and assets of a permanent establishment in South Africa.

Residence – An individual is resident if (i) “ordinarily resident” in South Africa or (ii) physically present in South Africa for more than 91 days in the current tax year and in each of the five preceding tax years, and physically present in South Africa for a period exceeding 915 days in the aggregate in those five preceding tax years. This excludes a person that is deemed to be exclusively resident in another country for purposes of the application of a tax treaty between South Africa and such other country.

Filing status – Spouses generally are taxed separately.

Taxable income – Taxable income is gross income, less exempt income and allowable deductions. Gross income from employment includes all remuneration in cash or in kind, including bonuses, allowances and taxes reimbursed or paid on the employee’s behalf. Dividends from South African companies are exempt from income tax but will be subject to dividends tax at a rate of 20%. The tax on lump sums received from a pension, provident or retirement annuity fund is calculated differently, depending on whether the payment is a result of resignation, withdrawal or retirement.

Capital gains – Only 40% of capital gains is included in taxable income, to be taxed at the normal tax rates applicable to individuals.

Deductions and allowances – Subject to certain restrictions, deductions are granted for contributions to pension and retirement annuity funds, certain donations and travel and motor vehicle expenses. Deductions for medical expenses have been converted to medical tax credits.

Rates – Rates are progressive up to 45%.

Other taxes on individuals:

Capital duty – No

Stamp duty – A 0.25% securities transfer tax applies on the transfer of shares.

Capital acquisitions tax – No

Real property tax – Municipal authorities levy a real estate tax, known as “rates,” on the occupation of real property. Transfer duty is payable at progressive rates up to 13% on the acquisition of immovable property, where the transaction is not subject to VAT.

Inheritance/estate tax – Estate duty at 20% is payable on the worldwide net estate of an individual who dies while ordinarily resident in South Africa, with a standard deduction of ZAR 3.5 million per estate. Certain other deductions are allowed, the most important of which is the deduction for assets accruing to a surviving spouse. Estate duty also is payable on the net South African-situated estate of a person who dies while not ordinarily resident in South Africa. The same deductions and exemptions are applicable.

A donations tax is payable where a resident donor donates property valued in excess of ZAR 100,000 in the aggregate per annum. The tax is levied at a rate of 20% on such excess, and is payable only if the donor is an individual resident in South Africa. Certain donations are exempt from donations tax, including donations between spouses and donations to approved public benefit organizations.

Net wealth/net worth tax – No

Social security – The employer must contribute the equivalent of 1% of gross income (up to a capped amount) for each employee, plus a similar 1% deduction from the employee, to the Unemployment Insurance Fund.

Compliance for individuals:

Tax year – The tax year for individuals ends on 28 February.

Filing and payment – Tax returns must be filed by a date published by the SARS. Tax on employment income is withheld by the employer under the Pay As You Earn (PAYE) system and remitted to the tax authorities. Income not subject to PAYE is self-assessed—individuals must make tax payments at six-month intervals during the tax year, and a final payment six months after the tax year.

Penalties – Penalties and interest apply for failure to comply with certain tax obligations.

Value added tax:

Taxable transactions – VAT is levied on the supply of goods and services, and on the importation of goods and the supply of imported services.

Rates – The standard rate is 15% (increased from 14% as from 1 April 2018); certain transactions are zero-rated or exempt.

Registration – A person making standard or zero-rated supplies of more than ZAR 1 million per year is required to register. Nonresidents that carry on an enterprise in, or partly in, South Africa are required to register. All foreign suppliers of electronic services to South African customers are required to register for VAT in South Africa in respect of supplies of e-commerce services. These foreign suppliers fall into the compulsory VAT registration category, which has a monetary threshold of ZAR 50,000 to trigger a VAT registration liability.

Filing and payment – VAT returns generally must be submitted every two months, but businesses with an annual turnover in excess of ZAR 30 million must submit monthly returns. Returns must be submitted within 25 days after the end of the tax period. Payment in full must accompany the return. For businesses that file their VAT returns and make payments electronically, the VAT must be paid by no later than the last business day of the month after the end of the tax period.

Source of tax law: Income Tax Act No. 58 of 1962; VAT Act No. 89 of 1991; Tax Administration Act No. 28 of 2011; Transfer Duty Act No. 40 of 1949; and Estate Duty Act No.45 of 1955

Tax treaties: South Africa has concluded more than 70 tax treaties. South Africa signed the OECD multilateral instrument on 7 June 2017. For further information on South Africa's tax treaty network, visit Deloitte International Tax Source.

Tax authorities: South African Revenue Service (SARS)
